Moving Forward in March Rev. Jundo Gregory Gibbs

We have a busy month ahead of us, and I am still thinking of the past. Specifically, I am thinking of Dr. Jeff Wilson's succinct presentation of Jodo Shinshu as "relax, trust, live with gratitude." However, the first time I typed it here, it came out "relax, rust, live with gratitude." Older men make many typographical mistakes. It was 35 years ago that Neil Young revived the then 25-year-old advertising jingle as a title for his tour and album: "Rust Never Sleeps." Isn't that the truth, 'though? Perhaps if we can follow Jeff's advice and learn to relax, trust and live with gratitude, we won't rust up so badly.

Please allow me to draw your attention to Bishop Kodo Umezu's visit to our temple March 14, 15 and 16. On Sunday, March 16, he will deliver the Dharma-message at our morning service. On Saturday, 3-15, he will be here to hear how you feel things are going with the Oregon Buddhist Temple. Let the Bishop know how you feel about the temple, its current direction and its leadership. If you cannot come to the temple March 14 to 16, you could write the Bishop at: Bishop Kodo Umezu, 2140 Durant Ave., Berkeley, Calif. 94704.

My family and I have enjoyed watching OBT progress toward being a multi-ethnic, multi-generational temple, still deeply rooted in Japanese culture and in the Japanese-American community. We have built closer ties to the Japanese Ancestral Society and other Japanese-American organizations in Oregon over these past twelve years. We have also established strong ties with the broader Buddhist Community in the greater Portland area. The Oregon Buddhist Temple has continued to nurture its core, long-affiliated community while drawing new members of all ethnicities and backgrounds. Not only my family and I, and the Minister's Assistants, but many of our long-time members can be seen going out of their way to make positive contacts with anyone who walks in our door. Rust never sleeps, but we are not rusting up. We are moving forward to a bright future in a relaxed, trusting and thankful way.

Our school of Pure Land, Mahayana, Buddhism, Jodo Shinshu, is potentially for everyone. We have to keep welcoming everyone we meet to join us, but we don't know who will or who will not be deeply touched by the nembutsu teaching. Even Sakyamuni Buddha failed to reach some. As he descended the mountain, shortly after Enlightenment, the sutras tell us that he met one man who asked him, "You look like something special happened to you. What's going on with you?" Sakyamuni explained that he had awakened to Buddhahood and the man replied (translating roughly) "Oh, ... I thought it must be something like that." He walked off without receiving the Dharma. He had no interest in what Sakyamuni Buddha was trying to share.

Lets not rust up. Let's continue to welcome everyone into our community, into our Sangha. Some will stay, some will be deeply nurtured, others may not be able to develop a taste for this particular school of Buddhism. So long as the Oregon Buddhist Temple continues to make the nembutsu teaching available to anyone who might have an interest in it, it/we will flourish. We all have the best interests of the temple in mind. Let's shake off the rust and move forward in the month of March and beyond. If you aren't sure how to relax, come to the "Tai Chi as Exercise" classes on most Mondays and Fridays. If you aren't sure how to trust, come to the services on Sundays and the Buddhist study classes on Mondays and Fridays. So far as living in gratitude goes, let's continue to learn how to do this together.

Gassho,
Gregory Gibbs

President's Message

David Wright

Oh boy, our new year is off to a terrific start! The OBWA put on a New Year's party, great food, bingo, everyone won! Truly amazing! And then we held our Northwest District convention in the middle of a near blizzard! That turned out to be well attended, and very successful by all accounts.

When a few people get together to say the Buddha's name it is special. When 60 or 70 people come together in that same cause, it is extra special. But when several hundred people come together at our conventions, WOW!

BUT WAIT THERE IS MORE! Imagine, a fabulous salmon dinner with entertainment in a terrific atmosphere, please tell your friends, put up some posters, help us get the word out. Help with the food prep if possible. This will be our first annual Salmon dinner, a good fundraiser for us and a lot of fun. Special big thank you Marilyn Ackerman. Listen, we're just getting warmed up, many more uplifting activities this year of the Horse... easy big fella!

Thank You everyone for coming out last Sunday and bringing your friends, not one parking place in our lot. Attendance is always such a uplifting experience. When the winds of Change begin to pick up, Refuge is always within our three treasures Namo Amida Butsu... Palms together... bowing deeply.

67th Annual NW District Convention

Etsu Osaki

This year's convention, held February 7 to 9, at the Sheraton Airport Hotel, was unique—it snowed! Some people never made it and others came in various ways somehow. But everything came together and turned out to be a nice, successful convention.

Our main speaker was Dr. Jeff Wilson, author and Jodoshinshu minister from Canada. At the Sunday morning breakfast he sat next to me so I told him that I had read his talk that he gave in Hawaii a few years ago and that I was very impressed. I asked him if he was planning to talk about that at the closing service, but he said he wasn't. After a moment he said he could change his talk.

The main theme of his talk was that Jodoshinshu could be explained in everyday terms. First it makes you feel relaxed because you are accepted just as you are. Secondly, we put our trust in Amida Buddha completely, and lastly we are thankful and say "Namoamidabutsu" in gratitude.

Scott Winner and Mark Achterman did a superb job with hospitality. OBWA helped with the refreshments. Tara Tamaribuchi-Gibbs and Ann Shintani Winner did a great job putting together the convention booklet. Everyone enjoyed the Minidoka Swing Band after the Saturday banquet. OBT members in the band are Elaine, Todd and Joy Yuzuriha.

Many thanks to the hard work of Ken Garner who chaired the convention, to all the committees, and to everyone who attended.

Next year's convention, "Everyday Rhythm of the Nembutsu", will be hosted by Seattle Betsuin at the Bellevue Westin Hotel, February 13 to 15. The keynote speaker will be Rev. Harry Bridge of the Oakland Buddhist Temple. Mark it on your calendar.

OBWA News

Etsu Osaki

Long-time member Fumi Okubo passed away recently and we will miss her very much. She was an OBWA member for many years and her parents were very active members of OBT. Her ashes are in the "nokotsudo" at OBT so anyone may pay their respects there. Since she had asked that there be no funeral we will honor her memory at the Sunday service on March 23rd.

Many thanks to the following members who made/donated refreshments for the convention hospitality room: Jean Takashima (kariko, kakimochi); Julie Kagawa, Kyoko Gibbs, Yasuko Fields, Amy Peterson, Etsu Osaki (sushi); and Edna Koyama (fruits).

We gratefully acknowledge donations from the following: Jean Matsumoto, Dana Kunisaki, June Shiigi, Susan Endecott, Misa Kodama, Alice Ando, Kiyomi Dickinson, Setsy Larouche, Takako Maeda, Alice Sumida, Miki Yagi, Etsu Osaki, Idaho-Oregon Buddhist Temple and White River BWA.

The next meeting will be March 22. Ohigan service will be March 23. The service will be followed by a potluck.

The annual OBWA New Year meeting and party was held February 1 at the Holladay Park Plaza. Many OBWA members and friends enjoyed the bento, program and camaraderie at the annual event. Monetary gifts from OBWA were presented to Oregon Buddhist Temple, to Rev. Gibbs and to the Dharma School. Onenjus were presented to members 88 years and older.

The 2014 cabinet was introduced as follows: Co-presidents: Jayne Ichikawa and June Shiigi, Vice President: Pat Hokama; Treasurers: Marilyn Achterman and Misa Kodama (assistant); English Recording Secretary: Ann Shintani Winner; Japanese Recording Secretaries: Kiyomi Dickinson and Yasuko Fields; English Corresponding Secretaries: Nancy Kajitsu and Katie Tamiyasu; Japanese Corresponding Secretary: Kyoko Gibbs; Past OBWA President Advisor: Alice Ando; Ministerial Advisor: Rev. Gregory Gibbs.

Thanks to Ray Fields who ran a fun Bingo game playing various versions of it. Thanks also to the following: Kiyomi Dickinson for the program cover design, Yasuko Fields and June Shiigi for taking care of the bento from Sho's Restaurant, and Jean Matsumoto for the use of Holladay Park Plaza.

Dharma School

Ann Shintani

From February 7 to 9, sixteen DS and nearly 20 YBA students found their way to the youth workshops at the NW District Convention and shared learning experiences and bonding with each other at the indoor pool and on the dance floor. The “snowmageddon” kept many at the hotel to enjoy the swing band. YBA enthusiastically presented “The Buddha Games,” a play by Joy Yuzuriha, at the banquet. The DS learned the gatha “Asa No Uta/Morning Song” and performed it during Sunday service along with helpful adults/college participants. Thank you to the youth workshop leaders: Rev. Diane Johnson, Matt Hama-saki (ministerial aspirant from White River Buddhist Temple), Amy Peterson and Elaine Yuzuriha. Thanks also goes to the following for helping with youth workshops and program: Marilyn Achterman, Lori Fukunaga, Kyoko Gibbs, Tara Tamaribuchi-Gibbs, Heatheranne Price, Ann Shintani and Scott Winner.

Heatherann Price has volunteered to help Kyoko with the Lumbini class. Please join us in welcoming her in this important role. Thank you, Heatherann!

Dharma School is planning elder visitations for April. If you would like us to visit you or a friend/family member, please contact Jean Matsumoto or e-mail dharmaschool@oregonbuddhisttemple.com.

The temple’s Girl Scouts trip received a number of interested families as Lauren Yanase’s GS Troop recruited students from Richmond Elementary School. Please look out for Girl Scouts at temple the second and fourth Sunday of the month. We are nearing the end of our cookie sale, and we have sold more than 300 boxes so far, which is great considering we had just six girl scouts. Thank you all for buying and eating our cookies! We hope to use it towards a summer campout.

Food Handling Reminnder

The Salmon Dinner is fast approaching. Please take a moment to remind yourself about your safe food handling practices. To help everyone get into the habit, we’ll be frequently asking/reminding everyone to do the following: Clean all work surfaces with bleach solution. Sanitize work surfaces frequently. At home I realized how many things I put on the kitchen counter like grocery bags, purses, newspaper, etc.

Re-wash your hands. Get in the habit of washing your hands frequently. We don’t usually think about all the things we’ve touch while standing in the kitchen – like cabinets, food containers, table tops, clothes, hair, etc.)

Check your hair. Hairnets are not only used to cover your hair but also keep it from falling onto work surfaces and food.

Check your sleeves. To ensure your sleeves do not touch food, roll your sleeves up above your wrists or wear a top with a shorter sleeve length.

Thank you for being conscientious!

Northwest Buddhist Women's Association (NWBWA) Convention Meetings

Jayne Ichikawa

The 67th NW Buddhist Convention hosted by the Oregon Buddhist Temple was successful and tremendously enjoyable due to many dedicated people who teamed together for this amazing event to take place despite the winter conditions that occurred on Thursday through Sunday. Special thanks to AI Ono who took special efforts to make sure our NWBWA meeting rooms were equipped efficiently and a delicious service of coffee, tea, and pastries were waiting for attendees at 7:00am.

June Shiigi and I as co-presidents of the 2/2013-2/1014 Northwest Buddhist Womens Association were in charge of the NWBWA representatives’ meeting on Saturday, February 8, and the NWBWA general membership meeting on Sunday, February 9. There were many important issues discussed and completed, which would impact the future of the NWBWA and the Federation of Buddhist Women Association (FBWA). Highlights included: (1) Election of FBWA cabinet officers for 2015 & 2016. Congratulations to Kiyomi Dickinson (Japanese recording secretary), and June Shiigi and Marilyn Achterman (auditors) who were elected to serve on this cabinet. (2) Important financial options were discussed and determined for future events/activities of the NWBWA. (3) First phase of the FBWA Youth Exchange Program with Japan was organized and presented under the leadership of June Shiigi. This program is still waiting to have the final approval by the Hongwanji, but committee work and donations are being implemented effectively. (4) More information about the May 29-31 World BWA Conference in Calgary, Canada and opportunities for tours were announced to members. What became very energizing for me were the support, encouragement, and friendships that developed from February 2013 to February 2014 with the other BWA district leaders and members. I began to realize and appreciate the commitment and dedication of these ladies for the welfare and future of our Jodo Shinshu teachings and the growth of our Sangha. How fortunate I was to have this opportunity to serve and learn from the NWBWA members. We wish the Seattle Betsuin BWA a very successful and meaningful year as they take the position of NWBWA leadership for the coming year.

Lady Kujo, Lady Ohtani Service

Etsu Osaki

The Sunday service on February 2, was dedicated to the memory of Lady Takeko Kujo and Lady Yoshiko Ohtani, and was conducted by OBWA. Lady Kujo (1887-1928), daughter of the 21st Gomonsu, Koson Ohtani, was the founder of the Buddhist Women's Association and of Asoka Hospital. She authored the book "Muyuge: Flower Without Sorrow," a Japanese classic.

Lady Ohtani (1918-2000) was the wife of the 23rd Gomonsu, Kosho Ohtani. She visited many temples in Japan and around the world to help revive the Buddhist Women's movement after World War II.

"A Moment in Eternity" by Lady Kujo

Shadows from the seven hills of Rome creep up to the ruins of an ancient civilization.
The ruins seem to symbolize the end of history on earth.

When compared with eternal nature, the briefness of man's history and his imper-manence becomes clear.

Our existence is no more than a grain of millet.

Regardless of how momentary, however, there is no doubt that we exist. We must not let even a fraction of this time escape us—the sacredness of life thus becomes apparent.

Our grief is not that life is so short, but that we are unable to live our momentary life well.

Poem by Lady Yoshiki Ohtani
(1967)

Yorokobite, Kanashimite
Hata yorokobite
Jiko (mihikari) no uchi ni
Insaki . . . yasurau.

(Translation)

In joy . . . in suffering,
Again, in time of joy
Amida the Light of Kindness
Being encompassed in the moment
. . . I am at peace.

Lotus Circle - March

Jean Matsumoto

Is spring on it's way? We will be looking forward to many fresh-colored flowers for our Flower Toban members to arrange on our temple altar each week. Donations from the following people will purchase those flowers for March Sundays:

- March 2 – Kim Kono in memory of (imo) her mother, Jean
- March 9 – Jerry Koike imo parents, Chikara and Toshiko; Tony, Terry and Tim Tanada imo father, Howard
- March 16 – Ray Fields imo father, Ben Feingold; Misa Kodama imo mother Sada Kitagawa

• March 23 – Takashi Fujii imo his cousin, Sakae Ando; Setsy Larouche imo father, George Yoshito Sadamoto; Nami Sasaki imo husband, Arthur Ojiro, and daughter, Susanne Myers.

• March 30 – Alice Kida and Lew Tomita families imo father, Jim Kida, and grandfather, Shoemon Nakamura

We are grateful for the generous donations for flowers, and to Ken Garner (webmaster@oregonbuddhisttemple.com) for the Lotus Circle webpage on our website where information about our loved ones can be shared. For information about the Lotus Circle, please call me at 503-280-2463, or e-mail: jamatsumoto@gmail.com.
